Primary Areas of Research

Research interests focus on clinical and developmental issues relevant to high-risk adolescents, including interpersonal development and relationship problems, antisocial behavioral problems, and substance abuse.

Clinical Work

Clinical work includes individual, couples, and family therapy with adolescents. Specializations include: (a) relationship-focused therapy with pregnant/parenting teens and their partners; (b) the prevention of domestic violence/child abuse; (c) substance abuse treatment for adolescents. Clinical supervision for students working with adolescents in a variety of contexts, including the Teen Mother and Child Program at the University Hospital, Odyssey House of Utah (Adolescent Program), Wasatch Homeless Health, and the Department of Psychology at the University of Utah
